

Playing Video files for Excel book

It is important to unzip files first – use the guide provided as a download named: instructions_unzip

Option 1: Use the FREE Adobe Media Player to view Flash / Shockwave video files, download from Adobe for security reasons and to ensure the most recent version as well as the most appropriate for your computer.

Option 2: View video file within your web browser (Google Chrome, Microsoft Edge etc.)

A file within the Video folder is included, offering a menu of all videos and you can simply click on the Exercise Number of choice to view the video tutorial.

Support notes are provided within this file, named: Video Tutorials Menu \(click here\)

You will possibly need to scroll down to the end of all the video exercise demo folders to reach the named Video Tutorial Menu pdf

Speed of loading video files is dependent upon the hardware / software / security of your own computer equipment using Microsoft Windows. No software is supplied, this is your own responsibility and Castle Creatives Limited will not interfere with any third party hardware or software. We only supply files relevant to the book and tutorials, it is your own responsibility as to how you use them within the limitation of licence as provided.

Use of any files is completely as per Castle Creatives Limited terms and conditions. No unauthorised copying in full or part is permitted unless specific written authority is provided by Castle Creatives Limited themselves.

Enjoy!
